

Little blessings

Aayushi Chaudhary
Probationary Civil Judge, Gopalganj

Tender leaves of the tree that created a canopy

Made the man sit under it and feel the tranquility,

Even the little critters were happy to play under its shadow

The lady in the room was pleased to see them through the window.

A koel bird weaving her nest with straws and rubble

A little boy was startled to see this nature's puzzle,

As the squirrels chased and teased each other up and down the trunk

The owl on the nearby tree rested and meditated like a monk.

The Sun that glared at the Earth with anger

Assured her that she is out of danger,

Far in the field the sunflowers stood cheerful

The tiny grasses were amazed to see it so colorful.

All the creatures lived together harmoniously

The birds chirped and sang songs so melodiously,

Every little blessings that endowed the pretty day

Taught everyone not to judge things our way.
